Black desert mobile best class for boss rush

what do you think is the best class to complete bossrush lv 99 and explain reasonPage 2 9 comments The mobile version of Black Desert Online has finally arrived on the international market, albeit with many changes from the original game. From now on, there are only five classes available in Black Desert Mobile, and more will be added next year. The five classes available in the game right now are completely different in terms of capacity to their original counterparts from the Korean version of Black Desert Mobile. That's why even experienced players can have trouble figuring out which of the five hero classes to choose. Below you will find the level list of the best classes in the game from best, which is Tier S, and ends with the worst, which is Tier D. Also, you will find out what modes each class prevails in, which should help you make decisions about which class to choose. Tier S: RangerRanger can do really well in PvP, but this hero's main area influence is PvE. That's where Rangers' speed and mobility win in every respect. This also applies to boss fights, which she can handle easily by using a long bow. But don't think long range is the only possible way to kill enemies. Ranger can do well in close combat using her fast dagger combos, although you need to keep up with healing potions in that case. Finally, ranger would be the best choice for beginners, as it's really easy to grind mobs with it. Tier A: ValkyrieJust as Ranger this class does really well both in PvE and PvP, but Valkyrie is better suited to PvP. This is also an excellent support class that can heal her teammates and help them recover in the most dire situations. In addition to her spell forces Valkyrie wields a sword and a shield. This makes her the most balanced class in the game to date by having both good defensive and offensive abilities. The only area where her performance can't compete with Ranger is in Guild Wars, where Ranger wins due to high mobility and Valkyrie struggles a bit with her combos. Tier B: WitchThe massive PvP battles in Guild vs Guild mode are the best position for the Witch class. This hero can't do anything wrong when it comes to AoEs (mass spell injury). Unfortunately, the witch is quite mediocre in PvE and even worse in one-on-one PvP. The problem in PvE is that she requires a lot of healing to stay alive, and in PvP she will be easily dominated by any other class that can get close to her. That's why her spells are best used when she can be protected by other players, and then she becomes a truly powerful weapon of destruction. Tier C: WarriorThe complete opposite of the Witch class is Warrior.This hero can be quite overwhelming when it comes to one-on-one PvP combat, and although he is okay in PvE, there is nothing that can stop him when he is fighting a single target. Since Warrior focusing effectively only on one goal at a time, he can't do much in Guild Wars. He is definitely recommended as a beginner-level beginner-level because of his high defense abilities. But other than that if you look at the melee class, then it's better to pick up Valkyrie because it's a much more balanced class. Tier D: GiantGiant is a very heavy and slow, but really impactful class that can prove its worth only against a bunch of enemies. That's why using him in PvP is not the best idea, but you can try him in PvE and Guild Wars for sure. In PvP other classes can easily avoid his slow attacks, and if he gets them, they might as well run away and heal. So pick this up only if you like to play with huge characters wielding massive axes.
